Preparing for an AGM during COVID-19?

As a number of clubs move towards their Annual General Meetings over the next 6 months, there are some burning questions that are still being grappled with.

In this article presented by the Governance Institute of Australia they tackle some of the key questions of holding a virtual meetings (e.g. Zoom etc)

Consumer & Business Services (CBS) have also allowed an extension for up to 6 months to allow clubs to holds their AGM. Given the difficulty in allowing all members to participate, there are good reasons to potentially defer.

Q: When operating a virtual meeting, if members enter the virtual AGM using a password and via the 'waiting room' as authorised attendees Read More....

Committee Minutes during a Crisis

Minutes for a club do not have to be verbatim and many clubs have sort to streamline their minutes. However, during the current crisis, committees will need to make difficult judgment calls and balance competing risks and considerations in their decision-making. Approaches to minute-taking should be carefully considered.

While there is no "one-size-fits-all" approach and each committee/ board will need to actively consider and determine what approach best suits their organisation, two tips are particularly relevant during the current crisis and should be kept in mind.Read More....
