

General information on the City of Onkaparinga for prospective candidates

Introduction

Our city is the largest metropolitan council in South Australia and is home to more than 176,600 people.

Our city covers 518 square kilometres including 31 kilometres of coastline.

Our strategies center on planning for the long term with regular input from our communities. We place emphasis on innovation, community engagement and sustainability.

The landscape of our city is varied, including the hills and coastal land, rural farmland, suburban blocks, light industrial uses and vineyards. We provide many services to our residents which include libraries, community centers, open spaces, waste collection, graffiti removal and water management.

Composition of the Council

The City of Onkaparinga is made up of six wards — Mid Coast, Knox, Pimpala, Thalassa, Southern Vales and South Coast.

There is a total of 12 Councillors, with two councilors representing each ward.

The principal member of Council is the Mayor, who is elected by the community.

This structure came into effect at the November 2018 Council elections following a representation review undertaken in 2017.

Revenue and expenditure

The City of Onkaparinga's budget is one of the largest in the state. We have budgeted to spend $210m on operating activities, which includes depreciation, and $72m on renewal and new & significant capital works.

Our total cash expenditure budget including loans and reserve movements is $242.5m.

The total rate revenue increase for 2023–24 was 7.9 per cent in line with CPI, plus revenue from new properties in the city (known as growth).

In addition to the above formal meetings, informal briefings and workshops are held throughout the year. In 2023 we had 38 evening sessions which covered topics such as the budget process, Economic Development and Tourism, Food Organics Green Organics (FOGO) Trial, Water Assets, Open Space Strategic Management Plan.

Examples of other responsibilities and activities elected members undertake include:

- Reading and preparation for meetings
- responding to enquiries from the community
- representing Council and/or providing a point of contact on external bodies
- attendance at community group and forum meetings
- attending presentation nights (e.g. local community and sporting groups or a council presentation night)
- attending civic and Australia Day ceremonies, citizenship ceremonies and ANZAC Day ceremonies.

From time to time members may also take part in bus tours looking at major projects within the city and attend training and conferences.

For members who are very active in the community the hours can be equivalent to, or more than, a full-time role.
